Can you golf like a Parrot Head? That's what the Annapolis Parrot Head Club wants to know! Golfers are invited to join the Annapolis Parrot Head Club for the Parrotpalooza Golf Tournament on Monday, September 24, at the Crofton Country Club, 1691 Crofton Parkway, Crofton, to find out. APHC is hosting a best ball golf tournament to benefit the Mike Whittles Pancreatic Cancer Research Fund at Johns Hopkins Oncology. Coach Whittles of Archbishop Spalding High School in Severn led the Cavaliers football team to the semi-finals while battling stage 4 pancreatic cancer. He passed away in June of 2012.

"We are hoping for a great turn-out of golfers," said APHC President Sharon Magill, O.D. "Coach Whittles was an important part of our community and a great man. We want to do whatever we can to help support research in his honor. We're looking for golf foursomes who want to come out, have a good time and play some golf with a great bunch of people."

Registration opens at 8:00am, and golfing begins with a shotgun start at 9:00am. Golfer goodie bags, lunch and refreshments and awards are included. There will also be a silent auction and hole-in-one giveaways.

Golfers can sign-up individually or as part of a foursome. This is a captain's choice scramble, so experience with golf clubs is not needed – just the desire to have a good time! The tournament is open to everyone. Costs are $135 for individual sign-up and $520 for a foursome. To sign-up, visit the Annapolis Parrot Head Club online at www.annapolisparrotheadclub.com.

A variety of sponsorship opportunities are available. For more information please contact Sharon Magill at 410-507-7334 or Sue Sullivan at 301-332-6502.

"We're just looking to have a good time," Magill said. "This is low-stress golf. Come out, meet some new friends and spend the day golfing for a purpose with us."
